

SACHIN GOR

Assistant Technical Co-ordinator

WHAT WAS YOUR CAREER PATH INTO YOUR ROLE?

Nearing completion of my A levels, I was not 100% sure which path I wanted to take, but I had always known that I would prefer practical experience over continuing studies. Hill has enabled me to do both of those things and has opened my eyes to several intricate and detail-oriented roles in construction.

WHAT DO YOU ENJOY MOST ABOUT YOUR ROLE?

Being a technical co-ordinator enables me to engage with a variety of stakeholders from a design perspective. This includes the internal site team, marketing and health and safety, as well as external consultants, clients and local communities. The fact that we are required to communicate the final vision to different people and collectively transpire their views is crucial, and something I take great pride in achieving.

WHAT IS YOUR GREATEST ACHIEVEMENT AT HILL?

My greatest achievement is being able to work with different consultants and clients to obtain practical and social experience. I have also been awarded a certificate from my university for being the highest achieving Level 4 Construction Management Student.

WHAT IS YOUR FAVOURITE HILL DEVELOPMENT?

Reynard Mills was the very first development I worked on. The site was only a 10-minute walk from my house, had a very good and friendly site team, and the level of quality and commitment to the design and construction of each block is reflected in its final outcome.
